THIRTY DEAD IN RUINED TOWN

60 Injured and Property Loss a Million at Brinkley, Ark.

HUNDREDS ARE HOMELESS

Every Business House In Ruins and There Is Hardly a Home That Is Not Damaged — Church In Direct Path of Storm Escapes Damage.

Brinkley, Ark., March 10.—Thirty or more lives were snuffed out, sixty people were injured, fourteen seriously, and property estimated to be worth $1,000,000 was destroyed as a result of the tornado which wrecked this little city.

The tornado hovered about the city only a few minutes, but its work of destruction was complete. The Roman Catholic church, standing directly in the path of the storm, alone escaped damage of destruction and stands as a grim sentinel on a scene of desolation. Main street and Cypress avenue, the two principal thoroughfares, are impassable and piled high with wreckage from end to end.

Every business house is in ruins and there is hardly a home that has not at least suffered the loss of a roof or wing. The Arlington hotel was totally destroyed. Eighty guests were registered there, but all escaped uninjured. The Brinkley hotel, Southern hotel and Kelley hotel were all destroyed without loss of life.

Relief squads have been at work all day caring for the dead and injured. The Rock Island and Cotton Belt railways have placed cars at the disposal of the relief committee, and many people are leaving Brinkley seeking a temporary refuge at nearby points. The dead were sent to Helena, from which point interment will take place.

Governor Donaghy arrived from Little Rock in response to a call from the citizens' committee. He has the situation well in hand and says food, clothing and shelter are the things most needed. Hundreds of people are homeless and are wandering about seeking a temporary abode.

The Catholic church has been converted into a hospital, and here the doctors and nurses are caring for the injured. The citizens of Helena have generously offered the use of their houses for the destitute.

Cyclone Wrecks Town.

Cuthbert, Ga., March 10—The northwestern section of Cuthbert was struck by a cyclone and almost totally destroyed. Many buildings are in ruins. One man has been killed and many more have probably been injured. About thirty loaded freight cars on the railroad track were destroyed.

OIL TRUST STAYS OUSTED

Missouri Supreme Court Refuses to Grant Rehearing of the Case.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 10.—The motions by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Republic Oil Company of Ohio for a rehearing of the ouster suit, recently decided against them, and for a modification of the judgment, were overruled by the Missouri supreme court.

The petition of the Waters-Pierce Oil company was upheld, the motion of the attorney general for an absolute ouster of the Missouri company being denied, the compliance with the order recently filed by the company approved and the judgment of ouster against it being suspended. The effect of these decisions is to expel the Indiana and Ohio companies from Missouri and to restore to the Waters-Pierce company, 60 per cent of whose stock is held by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the right to do business within the state.

TWO IMPORTANT CASES

Were on Trial at Court Last Week. One From Philipsburg and the Other From Miles Twp.

Last week's court proved the most important that has been held in this county for some time. There were only two big cases tried but they were hummers.

The first one was between T. R. Harter vs Nathan Hough, Emeline Hough et al. The suit was to locate boundry lines of timber land in Miles township, in this county. Harter wanted to recover for timber which he claimed defendants cut on his land, while the defendants claimed that the land was part of their land. Ex-Judge Love was attorney for Thomas R. Harter while the Houghs were represented by N. B. Spangler and W. G. Runkle. The case started Monday afternoon and went to the jury on Thursday about 3 o'clock. They returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $244.00.

The next case called on Thursday afternoon was an ejectment suit brought by the O. L. Schoonover estate vs. Mrs. Sadie Davis, involving the property located on the southwest corner of Fifth and Pine streets, Philipsburg, Pa. O. L. Schoonover was a rich bachelor who died at the home of Mrs. Davis in Philipsburg in September 1906. Before dying he had bought the property in question in which Mrs. Davis lived for $2300 through W. T. Bair's real estate agency, with the express purpose, it is alleged, of giving it to Mrs. Davis. The deed however was in his name. It was proven by about a dozen witnesses that he told them he bought the property for Mrs. Davis.

The plaintiff was represented by Capt. A. H. Woodward and Singleton Bell, of Clearfield, and N. B. Spangler of Bellefonte, while the fair defendant's interests were looked after by Ex-Judge Love and J. A. B. Miller. The case occupied all day Friday and went to the jury shortly after 5 o'clock on that day, and after a brief deliberation, a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant, subject to some points of law to be determined by the court.

The Second Week of Court.

The second week of court convened on Monday morning and after disposing of the accumulation of petitions, motions, etc., the list for the week was gone over and a number of cases continued. The following cases were otherwise disposed of.

Peter Mendis vs. R. G. H. Hayes, settled.

C. M. Bower, administrator of etc. of John Fetzer, deceased, now use of Ohestie A. Harper and Jared Harper, executors of the last will and testament of William Harper, deceased, vs. William Harper, deceased, vs. William E Brown, administrator of etc. of George Brown, deceased. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $821.75.

Comm. of Pa. ex rel. Ammon R. Burkholder vs. Jennie R. Hastings and Ross A. Hickok, administrators of etc of D. H. Hastings, deceased. This case grows out of the appointment of H. H Harshberger as guardian for the plaintiff by the Orphan's Court of Centre county, who was required to give a bond in the sum of $12,500 as guardian for this plaintiff and two others, who gave his bond in said sum with D. H. Hastings and C. M. Bower as sureties. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the penal sum of $12,500, damages or real debt $3322.57.

Same vs. John J. Bower and Ellen E. Bower, administrators of etc. of C. M. Bower, deceased, verdict in the same amount as in the preceding case.

Comm. of Pa. ex rel. Harry F. Burkholder vs. D. H. Hastings' administrators, verdict in the penal sum of $12,000, damages or real debt $2378.50.

Same vs. C. M. Bower's administrators, verdict the same as in the case immediately preceding.

Work to Begin April 1st.

A corps of civil engineers headed by D. K. Vanlngen, of Syracuse, N. Y., district engineer of the New York Central railroad are at Avis and positive announcement was made that work on the new shops at that place, will begin April 1st. The old repair shops now at the Junction are to be torn down and such parts of them as can be used will be moved to Avis and used in the construction of the new shop, which will be much larger than the old one and will be equipped with all the modern machinery and appliances. The engineers on Saturday looked over the ground on which the shops are to be located and pronounced everything satisfactory. The announcement that work is actually to begin on April 1st is good news to the Avis people, who believe it means the beginning of another big boom in railroad circles.

GIRL SLAIN BY HIGHWAYMAN

Slapped Thief When He Demanded Necklace and is Shot.

HER FIANCE UNDER ARREST

Pair Were Held Up at Lonely Place In Suburb of Baltimore, and After Robbing Man Highwayman Instantly Killed Nervy Girl When She Struck Him.

Baltimore, March 9.—Jennie Reed, aged twenty-one years, of this city, was murdered by a highwayman at Mount Washington, a residence suburb. She and Joseph Mueller, to whom she was engaged to be married, were on the way to visit friends at Mount Washington and, according to Mueller's statement, left the car at South avenue. When they had walked half a block and were in a lonely place they were stopped by a man who, levelling a pistol, demanded their valuables. Mueller says he gave up what money he had, and then the highwayman demanded a necklace worn by Miss Reed. Her reply was a slap in the face, upon receiving which the man fired, the bullet striking the girl behind the left ear. She was carried into a nearby house, but death had been almost instantaneous. The highwayman disappeared and is being diligently sought by the police. Mueller, who appears to have been the only witness to the shooting, was placed under arrest.

Last December Mueller received a threatening anonymous letter, in which he was warned that if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Reed he would be made to suffer. Some time thereafter there came to him by mail a box of candies, the contents of which were found to have contained poison. The sender of the package has never been discovered.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

The First Reformed Church of Howard Dedicated on Sunday.

The newly erected Reformed church at Howard, Pa., was formally dedicated Sunday morning. The opening service in the new church was held Saturday evening, when the Rev. Frank Wetzel of Rebersburg preached the sermon.

Sunday morning the church was well filled, the pastor the Rev. H. I. Crow assisted by Rev. Frank Wetzel conducted the devotional service, the dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt, D. D., after which the pastor made a brief statement as to the cost of the church, etc.

The building, furnished, cost $4800—Memorial windows, pulpit furniture, Communion Service, Bible, Plates for the offerings etc. were special gifts. A balance of $1225 was needed to dedicate the church free of debt. Rev. Dr. Schmidt took charge of the raising of the amount needed. At the morning service $1035 were secured, the church was then formally dedicated, by the pastor, to the worship of the Triune God.

The pastor, congregation and their Howard friends are to be congratulated on this beautiful church and the zeal they showed in pledging the full amount needed to free the church from debt.

Met a Tragic Death.

On Sunday morning about five o'clock Potter Bryan, the well known track walker on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad between the Forges and Thomastown tower near Tyrone, met instant death by being struck by a special passenger engine running light between the two seventeens. Mr. Bryan was walking westward and was at a point about one hundred feet above the crossing when he met his death. The body was gathered up and taken to Graham's undertaking establishment where it was prepared for burial. Mr. Bryan was one of the most familiar figures around the Tyrone station and was well and favorably known as one of the company's most faithful employes for many years. INSURGENTS MEET TAFT

Didn't State Where He Stood on Changing House Rules.

MUZZLES THE CABINET

Members Told at First Session That the President Will Do All the Talking For Publication—All But the Secretary of War Was Present.

Washington, March 10. — President Taft was given an opportunity to declare himself on the "insurgent" movement to revise the house rules. Diplomatically he sidestepped announcing how he stood, but in doing so he missed luncheon and about half the concert of Mme. Eames, which he was scheduled to attend in company with Mrs. Taft and their guests.

Representative Payne, of New York, chairman of the committee on ways and means, sought the support of Mr. Taft for the existing order of things, and the insurgent cause was advocated by Representatives Gardner, of Massachusetts; Madison, of Kansas, and Nelson, of Wisconsin.

The three "insurgents" heard it charged that Mr. Taft intended to join hands with the house organization in the interest of getting the tariff bill through as soon as possible. Greatly disturbed by these reports, they hurried to the White House to urge Mr. Taft to take a soft seat on the fence and leave the fighting to them. When they came out of the executive offices Mr. Gardner declared, with an exhibition of confidence, that the "insurgents" were no longer in a compromising mood.

"We are firmly impressed that Mr. Taft is not opposed to a change of the rules," said Mr. Gardner, "but he is a little fearful that a contest now would cross the line and interfere with the passage of the tariff bill."

An effort was made by Mr. Madison to show that there is no such danger in the fight they are conducting. He said that he had told Mr. Taft that he and his colleagues were not disposed to interfere with the continuance of the present ways and means committee, and that he thought he could promise that no objection would be made to the continuance of the old committees on any subjects that the president feels inclined to ask legislation at the present session.

TAFT MUZZLES THE CABINET

Members Told President Will Do All Talking For Publication.

Washington, March 10. — President Taft's first cabinet meeting convened Tuesday. All the members except Mr. Dickinson, the secretary of war, were present.

President Taft has determined not to permit the members of his official family to discuss the business they transact. When the meeting broke up Secretary Knox announced Mr. Taft's ruling. "The president has decided to pursue the policy of his predecessor and do his own talking," said Mr. Knox. Secretaries Meyer, Nagel and Wilson confirmed this statement.

ADMITS HE KILLED GIRL

Man Who First Said Robbers Shot Her Held For Her Death.

Baltimore, March 10.—A part of the mystery connected with the shooting to death of Miss Jennie Reid at Mount Washington, a residence suburb, was cleared up when Joseph Mueller, her companion, confessed to the police that he himself killed her. He avers, however, that it was accidental, but the police believe it was a case of deliberate murder.

He was held in custody and following an examination by the city police authorities, he made a confession in which he says that while they were walking along the path with the girl in front he saw a shadow in the woods which frightened him and he fired twice, the shots striking Miss Reid.

Throws 20-Cent Eggs at Neighbor.

Pittsburg, March 10.—There was a row at 48 Aurelia street, when Mrs. J. Wagner, of next door, came in with a dozen of eggs and recalled that she had borrowed a dozen from Mrs. Brown some weeks ago. Mrs. Brown announced that a dozen eggs would not square matters. While she had lent her neighbor only a dozen, they were worth 50 cents, while today the price is 20 cents. Mrs. Wagner announced that one dozen was all she would return, and the fight started when Mrs. Brown began to throw the eggs at the borrower.

TAFT PRAISES MR. ROOSEVELT

Never Served Under a Man More Generous in His Praise.

INTIMACY NEVER RUFFLED

Declares When the Friction of the Last Few Months Shall Be Forgotten Theodore Roosevelt Will Take His Place in History With Washington and Lincoln.

New York, March 4.—In its issue of March 6 Colliers Weekly will publish the following article by President Elect Taft, under the caption of "My Predecessor:"

"Mr. Roosevelt and I came to know each other when he was chairman of the civil service commission and I was solicitor general, in 1890 to 1892, in Washington. We were both subordinates in the Harrison administration. We lived in the same part of Washington. Our wives knew each other well, and some of our children were born about the same time.

"We found, after discussion, that we agreed in quite a marked way in our views of proper political ideals and proper political methods. We were as emphatic in the judgment that the political reformer who was not willing to accept conditions as they were as the basis for his action, and to work for the better things that were practical, without achieving all that he would like to achieve, was rather a hindrance than a help to progress and merely assisted the permanent control of the boss and the machine. This, I think, had been the moving principle of Mr. Roosevelt's career.

Generous In His Praise.

"No one associates with Mr. Roosevelt closely without having the strongest possible affection for him. His mind, his disposition and his temperament are all of that class that would rather make him agree than disagree with the people with whom he comes in contact. But this is not to say that he does not enjoy a controversy and a fight according to the rules of the game, for he does. He believes as strongly as possible in team work, and I never served under any man, or hope to serve under another man so intensely loyal to the cause which we were both seeking to uphold, and so generous in his acceptance of the full responsibility for his subordinates in the work as Theodore Roosevelt. I never served under another who was as generous in his praise of those who worked with him and who was as willing to accord more than their deserts to the men who were shoulder to shoulder with him in the fight. That characteristic of his has been calculated to tie men to him with bonds of steel.

"The general theory that Mr. Roosevelt is of an exceedingly impulsive nature is perhaps justified to the extent of saying that he had a marvelous quickness for apprehending a question and reaching the nub of it and almost an overwhelming desire to decide and get rid of the issue presented as promptly as possible. I have never met a man who, upon proper presentation, would reverse himself as willingly and with as little trace of obstinacy or unreasonableness as Mr. Roosevelt.

"The relation between Mr. Roosevelt and myself has been one of close and sweet intimacy. It has never been ruffled in the slightest degree, and I do not think that we have ever misunderstood each other.

Poor Man's Champion.

"Mr. Roosevelt's real, and what one might almost describe as affectionate interest in the welfare of the poor man, of the man who has great obstacles to meet and who has the odds against him in life's struggle, and the sincerity of his desire to help that class of men, no one who ever had to do with him could doubt; and his insistence has always been that the difficulty between the so-called classes in the country and the failure of educated lawyers and political economists and others to bring about proper relations between the well-to-do and those who are dependent upon wages for their living, arises from an absence of a proper point of view on the part of those who are leading comfortable lives. The confidence that the common plain people, including the wage earners, have had in Theodore Roosevelt as their representative and defender has been most perfectly placed; for there never was a champion more sincere in support of their real interests, and yet there never was a friend franker in his statement to them of the unpleasant truths that occasionally they ought to be told. Mr. Roosevelt understands the plain people about as well as Lincoln did, shares their feelings and gives accurate expression to them. Hence his marvelous hold upon the great body of the people, which has continued to exist in undiminished strength in spite of the criticism heard of him and his methods in quarters more conspicuous than really significant.

"When the friction of the last few months shall be forgotten, when the mists of momentary irritation shall have disappeared, the greatness of Theodore Roosevelt as president and leader of men in one of the great moral movements of the country's history will become clear to everyone, and he will take his place in history with Washington and Lincoln."

Sherman Sworn In.

When all the witnesses to the ceremony were assembled, Vice President Fairbanks rose and called the session of the senate to order. After a brief valedictory address, in which he thanked the senators for the courtesy and respect shown to him during his term of office, Mr. Fairbanks called to his rostrum the vice president elect, James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York, and, the crowd standing, administered to him the oath and turned over to him the gavel that is the outward symbol of the authority attaching to his new office. The first official act of the new vice president as presiding officer of the senate was to call the senate to order and direct the recently elected members to come forward and take the oath. This accomplished, Vice President Sherman declared the senate adjourned for the time being.

Led by the sergeants-at-arms of the senate and house, the members of the two houses and the other officials marched through the corridors of the capitol to the inaugural stand that had been erected at the east portico. As the retiring chief executive and his successor appeared at the main door of the capitol and proceeded to walk to the front of the stand toward Chief Justice Fuller, who, with Bible in hand, awaited Mr. Taft, the troops massed in front of the stand and drawn up on two sides presented arms and a cheer rose from the crowd that extended as far as one could see from the stand. The crowd was very quiet as Mr. Taft repeated the words of the oath after Justice Fuller, and their voices were plainly heard.

Mr. Roosevelt did not accompany Mr. Taft back to the White House. In accordance with his previously announced plans, after the inauguration ceremonies he left the capitol for the railroad station, where he and Mrs. Roosevelt took an early train for New York. It is his intention to devote his time to the preparations for his coming trip to the African wilds.

Protection For New President.

Custom requires the president of the United States to take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address in the open air, and Mr. Taft did not depart from the custom. However, in deference to the protests of those who believed that his health should not be endangered by the March air more than was absolutely necessary, the stand upon which he reviews this afternoon's parade is partly inclosed in glass, thus affording him considerable shelter. It is a wearisome task to watch marching bodies of men pass for several hours and acknowledge their salutes, but there is little doubt that President Taft will display as few signs of fatigue tonight as did his "rough riding" predecessor four years ago.

The taking of the oath is the only really essential part of the inauguration ceremonies, but only a comparatively small portion of the thousands visiting Washington can assemble before the capitol within seeing distance. For the rest the inaugural parade and the inaugural ball are the great features of the occasion. For four hours this afternoon the soldiers, sailors and civilians will march down Pennsylvania avenue and past the presidential reviewing stand in front of the White House. President Taft's escort from the capitol to the executive mansion was the famous Troop A, of Cleveland, O., known in Washington and elsewhere as "the black horse troop."

Big Parade Begins March.

While President Taft and his guests had luncheon in the White House the parade waited. As soon as he made his appearance on the reviewing stand the grand marshal of the parade, General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the United States army, gave the command to march, and the procession began to move past the stand.

Leading the great parade are the regular troops, including the West Point cadets. Then came in turn the marine corps and the jackies of the navy, the latter including the men of the battleship fleet which circumnavigated the world. After them come the militia organizations, and the civilian bodies wind up the procession. For several days the paraders have been pouring into town by thousands. Today's parade is declared to be by all odds the biggest that ever marched up Pennsylvania avenue. Every feature of it is receiving generous applause from the people who pack the sidewalks of Pennsylvania avenue and fill every window on that historic thoroughfare.

Tonight's Two Attractions.

Tonight will hold two attractions for the visiting thousands. The first will be the grand display of fireworks back of the White House; the other will be the ball. The inauguration managers have announced that the fireworks display will excel any ever seen in Washington. The crowds will see displayed in the air in lines of fire the features of the incoming and outgoing presidents, a battle between aerial warships, floral displays and other exhibitions of the pyrotechnic art.

The culminating feature of the inaugural ceremonies will be the ball in the pension office. President Taft and Mrs. Taft, Vice President Sherman and Mrs. Sherman and every one else will attend the ball, and the president's reception will be one of the leading features. He will be on public inspection, for the ball is open to all who have been able to pay $5 apiece for tickets. The reception committee, composed of prominent citizens of all the states, will present to Mr. and Mrs. Taft the visitors from their respective states. The ball will probably last until midnight. Tomorrow and the next day there will be concerts, instrumental and vocal, in the pension office to wind up the inauguration week.

COAL CONFAB ON MARCH 11

Mine Workers and Operators to Meet in Philadelphia.

HOPES FOR COMPROMISE

It Is Said Miners Believe Their Demands Will Be Declined at First, But Hope to Reach a Compromise. Union Organizers Busy Recruiting Men.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 6.—About fifty representatives of the Mine Workers' union met here with National President T. L. Lewis for the purpose of arranging for a conference with the coal operating interests. At the conclusion of the session President Lewis issued the following statement:

"The meeting of the three district boards was to consider the prospective conference with the anthracite operators. Many matters in this conference, like others, will not be given to the public, not because we would not like to take them fully into our confidence at this time, but for the reason that we believe it would be an unwise business method to divulge negotiations which are pending and which will affect vitally so many people as well as varied interests.

"The conference between the anthracite operators and the United Mine Workers' representatives will be held at the Reading Terminal building, beginning Thursday, March 11, at 11 o'clock a. m. This is contingent only on the possible postponement to a later date of a few days on account of the pressing nature of the business of interested parties. The members of the three anthracite districts, executive boards and the three international board members of the anthracite districts, with such other representatives as we may select, will go to Philadelphia to attend this conference."

There is much speculation as to what the outcome of the negotiations will be. The miners look for a suspension at the expiration of the present agreement on March 31 until negotiations are concluded. They believe their demands will be declined at first, but hope at least to reach some compromise. The forty national organizers in the field are busy recruiting the union, thousands of its members having let their dues lapse since the last coal strike.

A conference of the executive officers of the three anthracite districts was held here this morning. A meeting is being held this afternoon between these officials and the score or more of national organizers who are now in the anthracite region. Mr. Lewis stated that he would probably issue a formal statement at the close of the meeting.

MR. ROOSEVELT HOME

Ex-President Now Free From All Official Cares.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 5.—Citizen Theodore Roosevelt, free from all official cares, rests peacefully this morning in his own home on Sagamore Hill, after having gone through one of the busiest weeks of his entire life—the final week of his seven years' administration as president of the United States, which came to an end at noon yesterday. As an ordinary gentleman and lady of the land the ex-President and Mrs. Roosevelt journeyed from the nation's capital to Oyster Bay after the cares of office had been lifted from the former's shoulders and placed upon those of William Howard Taft. It was in the most democratic manner that the trip from Washington to Oyster Bay was made.

Sheep and lambs have raised in price correspondingly.

PARADE THIS AFTERNOON

Procession, Fireworks and Ball to Close Event.

Washington, March 4.—In the presence of a mighty concourse of people William Howard Taft, of Ohio, swore today to "preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States," and by so doing became the twenty-seventh president of the United States.

Immediately after the administration of the oath to Mr. Taft by Chief Justice Fuller the new president delivered his inaugural address to the crowds that filled the plaza in front of the east portico of the capitol. He spoke for nearly an hour, and then, turning to his escort, signified his readiness to leave the scene of the inauguration for the White House, his official residence during the coming four years.

A way was cleared for the new president, and, entering his carriage and escorted by his cavalry guard, he was driven down Pennsylvania avenue to the executive mansion. From the curbs to the house fronts and on the face of the buildings nothing could be seen of the avenue for the mile that lies between the capitol and the White House but a mass of jammed humanity. The new president's progress was marked by a continuous wave of cheering.

At the White House President Taft and his escort partook of luncheon before proceeding to the grand stand, at the court of honor to review the inaugural parade. With the passing of the marching thousands before the new president, the display of fireworks in the rear of the White House and the inaugural ball this evening inaugural day will close.

Beginning of the Ceremonies.

As far as President Taft and his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt, were concerned, the day began with breakfast at the White House, where Mr. and Mrs. Taft have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt. By 10 o'clock all was made ready for the procession from the White House to the capitol. Accompanied by President Roosevelt and escorted by a veteran guard commanded by General O. O. Howard, Mr. Taft was driven up gayly bedecked Pennsylvania avenue, which was already crowded. On their arrival at the capitol Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt proceeded at once to the senate chamber to witness the inauguration of Vice President Sherman.

Before the entry of the president elect, who preceded the retiring president into the senate chamber, the room was filled to overflowing with government dignitaries assembled to witness the administration of the oath of office to Mr. Sherman. Crowded within its doors were the members of the senate, both new and old; the members of the house of representatives, the justices of the United States supreme court, the members of the diplomatic corps, the heads of the ex

A MODIFIED QUARANTINE.

Two Townships Still Under the Ban—They are Walker and Marion.

A Modified Quarantine in relation to foot-and-mouth disease went into effect February 25th, 1909. The limits of territory quarantined are prescribed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The quarantine will, however, be enforced by the State Livestock Sanitary Board excepting in relation to shipments from the quarantined districts to points outside of Pennsylvania. Under this new regulation, the areas quarantined are to be considerably diminished in size and greater freedom of movement and shipment are to be permitted.

Under the former quarantine order, as established by the United States Department of Agriculture, the district involved twenty-six counties in eleven of which there has been no foot-and-mouth disease. The Federal authorities have now accepted the view of the State authorities, to the effect that it is safe to draw in the quarantine lines so that only those townships in which disease actually occurred and the adjoining townships shall continue in quarantine, excepting in one County where the last disease was found, to which the same regulation will apply as soon as the farm-to-farm inspection is completed.

Under the new order it will still be necessary to take out permits for moving livestock within the quarantined districts, and permits will also be issued for the removal from the quarantined districts of animals for immediate slaughter. Permits will be granted promptly and, as heretofore, without cost, upon application to any one of the branch offices or to agents of the State Livestock Sanitary Board.

It is also required that hay and straw and hides taken out of the quarantined districts shall be moved only on permit. In the case of hides and skins, disinfection will be required before such transfer is allowed if they were removed from cattle, calves or sheep before January 1st 1909.

The infection of foot-and-mouth disease may linger for several months about places that have harbored infected cattle. Since it is possible that all of the infected places have not been found, even though an exceedingly careful search has been made, it is necessary, for the protection of the livestock interests of the community, the state and the nation, to continue some restrictions and oversight in these general localities where the disease has occurred. It is hoped that the necessity for this oversight will soon be past. The State authorities are exceedingly anxious to remove all restrictions as quickly as this may properly be done, and as soon as they are permitted so to do by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The United States government cannot enforce a quarantine with relation to a part of a state, but only with relation to an entire state, therefore, if the local quarantine is not faithfully observed and enforced, the entire State will be quarantined for the protection of the rest of the county. It is to be understood, then, that if local quarantines are not continued in the manner demanded by the United States authorities, it will become necessary for such authorities to place a quarantine on livestock and farm commodities in the entire State.

In relation to Centre County: The entire county has heretofore been under quarantine regulations which have prohibited the shipment of cattle, sheep and swine, and of hay and straw and of undisinfected hides, skins and hoofs of cattle, sheep and swine from this county to other States, and to parts of Pennsylvania not in quarantine.

Under the new quarantine order all restrictions are removed and shipments may be made freely to any point from all parts of Centre County except from the townships of Marion and Walker. Restrictions are continued on these townships on account of their proximity to infected regions in Clinton County. It is, however, permitted to ship livestock for slaughter, and hay and straw from these townships upon permit. Hides and skins removed from the carcasses of animals since January 1st may be shipped without disinfection, and hides and skins removed before January 1st may be shipped on permit, after disinfection.

It is forbidden to drive or move cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine over the public roads and highways in the quarantined district excepting on permit so to do. Permits may be obtained free of charge from the Agent of the State Livestock Sanitary Board at Lock Haven, or from the Branch Office of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, at Sunbury. Applications for permits should state the kind of animals, and the number or amount of animals or commodities to be moved, the names and addresses of the owner, shipper and consignee, the places the animals or commodities are to be moved from and their destination.

SAYS THERE WILL BE NO MINE STRIKE

Declares Men Won't Go Out If Demands Are Rejected.

THEY ARE NOT PREPARED

Man Associated With Workers Claims Operators Have Stored Enough Coal to Last Throughout the Summer. Increasing Membership In Union.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 8.—In the opinion of a man who was here with the mine workers during the past three days, there will be no strike of the anthracite workers, even if the operators reject all the demands, as they have said publicly they will.

It is his belief that if the operators persist in their refusal to grant any concessions, that the mine workers will be advised by President Lewis and the district officers to remain at work during the summer, while the union is being strengthened, and wait until a better opportunity.

"There are several reasons why a strike now would not be successful," he explained. "In the first place, the operators began storing coal last year in order to have a large quantity on hand in case of a strike. This amount was greatly increased during the mild weather of the winter, and there is now in storage some ten or twelve million tons.

"If a strike was declared next month, when the existing agreement expired, the coal in storage would supply the demand during the hot weather for four months or more before any scarcity of coal was felt.

"This condition would severely handicap the mine workers, and in all probability would defeat them. Then, too, the membership of the union in the anthracite district is not as large as it should be.

"By fall, too, business conditions will be better than they are now. The general tendency now is to reduce wages, not to increase them."

Acting President Adam Ruscavage, of the Wyoming and Lackawanna district, and President John A. Fahy, of the Pottsville and Shamokin districts, remained in this city preparing for the conciliation board meeting. President McIlhenny, of the Hazleton district, will join them here. All are now busily collecting data from their various districts to reinforce President Lewis' presentation of the demands, and this work will keep them busy until the day of the convention. They expect that the presentation of the mine workers' demands, together with the arguments as to why they should be granted, can all be completed in the first day of the conference.

National and district organizers who gathered here to be instructed by President Lewis after he had heard reports of the district officers on conditions in various sections of the region, left for the districts to which they have been assigned.

SAYS HOUSE WAS STOLEN

Owner Gives Notice to Man Who Moved It.

Asbury Park, N. J., March 8.—Theft of a building at night is the charge William J. Paynter, of Bradley Beach, says he will bring against Howard H. Johnson unless Johnson moves the building back to its original position. Between suns the building disappeared from Paynter's lot and was found on Johnson's lot, adjoining. The building is valued at $500.

Johnson, Paynter says, paid him $300 cash for the rent of the building for two years, but Johnson's story is that the building belongs to him. Johnson is divorced from his wife and Paynter says he will produce her to prove the building was rented, not sold, to Johnson.

LAST OF ILL-FATED STEAMER

General Slocum, Converted In to a Barge, Goes to Bottom.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 8—The barge Maryland, formerly the steamboat General Slocum, on which more than 1000 persons lost their lives a few years ago, sank at South river.

The marge was loaded with 500,000 brick consigned to a New York contractor. The weight sank the craft so deep that the bottom scraped a rock, which tore a hole of considerable size.

Norwich, N. Y., March 8. — Mrs. Henry C. Jacobs shot her husband in the head, inflicting serious injury, and then shot and fatally wounded herself. She survived her injuries only a few hours, but her husband will probably live, though he will be blind for life, as the bullet lodged just behind his eyes. Jealousy was the cause of the tragedy.

DIVED FROM WINDOW

Naval Officer While Ill Plunged From Window of Hospital.

Washington, March 8. — Lieutenant Commander James H. Reid, U. S. N., leaped from a second-story window of the naval hospital, where for two weeks he has been under treatment, and was seriously if not fatally injured. The fact that the naval officer escaped instant death is considered by the hospital surgeons as remarkable.

Lieutenant Reid sent his nurse from the room to procure a glass of water. The officer barricaded the door tightly. Then, seizing a heavy oak table, he rammed it against the window sash, tearing it from its fastening. Reid took a running jump and dived headlong from the window, striking upon his head on the ground, thirty feet below. He suffered a serious fracture of the collar-bone and concussion of the brain.

Reid has been on sick leave since October, 1907.

While rubbing the back of her neck with a lotion she felt the needle. It was extracted by a physician and the pains at once ceased.

WOMAN FATALLY SHOT WHILE LYING IN BED

Rejected Suitor Then Ended Life by Poison and Shooting.

Pittsburg, March 8.—Waking at 4 o'clock in the morning at her home in Beaver, thirty miles west of here, Mrs. Mamie McKee, a widow, found William G. Wilner, a rejected suitor, standing at her bedside, and when she declared again, in answer to his question, that she did not love the man, he fired four bullets into her head. Wilner then killed himself by taking poison and then shooting himself.

Mrs. McKee is still alive, but with no possible chance of recovery. Since the death of her husband, William McKee, five years ago, Mrs. McKee has conducted a boarding house and Wilner was one of her boarders. During the last year Wilner was insistent in pressing his attentions upon Mrs. McKee, but she had rejected all his advances.

BALTIMORE STORMBOUND

Two Persons and Many Horses Killed By Live Wires.

ALL WIRES WERE DOWN

Uprooted Trees and Tangled Wires Strewn Over the City For Miles. Fallen Poles and Trees Stalled Railroad Trains and Crews Were Forced to Chop Their Way Through.

Baltimore, March 5.—Two persons dead, many horses electrocuted, hundreds of trees uprooted and telegraph and telephone wires strewn over the city for miles is the partial result of the most severe storm that has visited this city in ten years. The drizzling rain turned to snow, and the snow and sleet fell, clinging to everything it touched, turning telephone and all overhead electric wires into drooping festoons, that grew larger and heavier, until their sheer weight broke them down to lay in tangled masses upon the streets. Telegraph poles and trees bordering the railroad tracks for miles in all sections were carried down by the combined strain of the weighted wires and the wind. Falling across the tracks, it was this factor that had so much to do with the utter demoralization of train schedules.

Five hundred poles are reported to be down on the line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad between this city and Washington. The Pennsylvania Railroad company suffered almost as severely. The crews of the first train to get through were obliged to chop their way through fallen telegraph poles and trees. It will be many days before the telegraph companies will be able to get their wires working in anything like normal condition.

Policeman Thomas H. Worthington and Mrs. Margaret Schimpff were killed by live wires, and almost a score of horses were shocked to death from fallen live wires.

No calculations can be made of the money loss, but as a matter of fact had it not been for the complete demoralization of the railroad and wire means of communication which it caused, the storm would have passed for an ordinary winter snowfall which did not exceed ten inches in depth. It was the excessive weight of the snow that did the mischief. The temperature ranged from 30 to 40 degrees.

Rumor From Annapolis Says Oyster Dredgers Perished In Storm.

COMMUNICATION WAS CUT OFF

Storm Was Worst In Years For Telegraph and Telephone Companies.

Philadelphia, March 5.—As a result of the March blizzard the middle Atlantic seaboard from New York to Norfolk found itself buried in an avalanche of snow and swept by destructive winds. For the telephone and telegraph companies the storm was one of the worst in years. Wires in all directions went down at the wind's first onslaught. For eight hours Washington, the central point of America for the time being, was completely isolated, and today the only means of communication between the capitol and the outside world was over three crippled telegraph wires, one to New York, one to Atlanta and a third to Charlottesville, Va. No telephone or railroad wires between Philadelphia and Washington or Baltimore are working.

The worst of the snow-laden hurricane struck a wedge of territory which included Washington and Baltimore.

FIRE CRY CAUSED PANIC IN SCHOOL

Six Girls Injured in Rush For the Exits.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 6.—Six young girls were severely bruised in a panic at St. Stanislaus Parochial school, on Fillmore avenue. It was only a few minutes before the regular time for dismissing the 1000 girls, when a fire engine came clanging down the street. The fire was in a house adjoining the school.

The sound of the apparatus stopping so nearby caused nervousness among the girls, and when one of them screamed "Fire!" a wild stampede ensued. The teachers did their utmost to check the rush, but they were swept aside, and in a few seconds the stairways were jammed with a mob of fear-crazed children. Three-fourths of the children were safely out of the building before the inevitable collapse of the line occurred at the foot of the stairs. About a dozen fell. There was no checking of the onward rush of those behind as they trampled over the screaming youngsters on the floor. When the stairway was cleared it was found that six of the girls were unconscious. They were quickly revived.

THE PRESIDENT'S SALARY

For the second time in the history of the country the salary of the president is to be raised. The first congress fixed the compensation at $25,000 a year. No change was then made until the second term of President Grant, when the salary was increased to $50,000. The fifty-ninth congress appropriated $25,000 for the traveling expenses of the president, to be expended at his discretion. Yesterday's action of the house of representatives fixes the salary of the president at $75,000 with no allowance for traveling expenses. This means a considerable net increase for the next president as Mr. Roosevelt spent only $9,000 of his travel allowance last year.

It is surprising that the sentiment should still exist in many quarters that the president of the United States is overpaid. During the recent debate in the senate on the proposed salary increase, attention was called to the "enormous appropriations" for the upkeep of the White House and grounds, and the opinion was expressed that the President was already receiving more than was necessary. With equal logic, attention might have been directed to the huge expenses for the maintenance of the capitol and the office building erected for the use of the senators and representatives. The "plant" belongs to the government and must be maintained in a manner befitting the dignity of the nation. Anything in reason that adds to the comfort and convenience of its official occupant should be furnished. In the matter of compensation for its president, this nation cannot afford to be niggardly. There is a popular notion corroborated by close observation, that he earns all he gets. The president of France receives a salary of $120,000 and an equal sum for expenses. The original provision by the senate of $100,000 for the president of the United States was not too large, and certainly the compensation now agreed upon will not receive the disapproval of the people on the ground of extravagance.

DADDY KNOWS

The moral of the Bryan girl's tragedy is that Daddy knows writes William Allen White. He sees men every day in all of the aspects. He sees good men. He sees bad men, who have some good in them. He sees designing men and weak men. And he knows. More than that, his heart is just as soft as yours, and if the man is any kind of a man you will be happy, but Daddy Knows.

Trust him. Believe that if there is any show for you at all, Daddy won't object. Daddy wants you to be happy. He has all the high hopes for you that you have for yourself, and when Daddy says no —Daddy knows. If girls would only remember that this would be a brighter, happier world. For Daddy, who isn't of much use around the house and is generally supposed to be considerable of an "it" one way or another, at home—Daddy, who seems to have forgotten all about the golden land of true romance in which youth lives, old Daddy's memory is long, and his soul is wrapped up in you, my dear —Daddy Knows!

AN EXPERIENCED OFFICIAL.

When the newly installed chief magistrate of this grand republic sat down to the executive desk March 6th to begin his work as the chief servant of the American people he lacked the ignorance which distinguished some of his most noted predecessors. The word ignorance is here used in the sense of lack of knowledge. Perhaps the majority of our presidents were destitute of that experience which qualifies a public officer for efficient service from the start. Some of them were painfully wanting in that knowledge which breeds confidence.

President Taft, however, knows as much about the new job he has undertaken as any man can who has not actually performed its duties. He has been in the public service for a goodly number of years and each successive task ably performed gave him a little deeper insight into the the workings of our governmental machinery. So that when he took the oath of office he was the best fitted man, by practical experience, not to mention native ability, who has ever presided over the destinies of this nation. He went to the president's desk March 6th without the slightest fear and he began the discharge of his duties at once with no uncertainty and without the need of guidance.

With a president so admirably qualified for the discharge of the duties of his office the American people have a right to cherish a large confidence in the man and his policies. There is every reason to believe that some of his ideas will not commend themselves to considerable bodies of his countrymen; no man living could hold the undivided confidence of so many people during a period of four years. But it is as certain as anything earthly can be that he will make a wise and prudent administrator of the affairs of the nation duringing his term of office.

AN APOSTLE OF OPTIMISM.

It was hardly necessary for Mr Taft to tell us over his own signiture that he is an optimist. His celebrated smile of the irremovable variety, the hopeful views contained in his speeches and writings and the material contributions to the cheerfulness of the nation which have resulted from his public career are sufficient to show that the president elect and chronic pessimism are as far apart as the poles. The sociologist who divided humanity into two classes, the grinners and the growlers, would have no doubt in which category to place William Howard Taft. But Mr. Taft's letter to the Rev. Dr. Slicer, the president of the Optimists club, is important because it contains in compact form a sentiment that cannot be too strongly emphasized in these days when hyper-criticism is a fad. "The man who does not hope for better things and does not believe that better things can be brought about, is not the man likely to bring better things about. Constant criticism and constant pessimism are productive of paralysis and stagnation."

Mr. Taft has little use for the school of destructive criticism of which the now-discredited professional muckrakers were the chief examples. His own career of distinguished services to the nation has shown that he is the exact opposite of "the man who does not hope for better things." Confronted with the situation which he met and conquered in the Philippines, for instance, what would a preacher of the doctrine of despair have been able to accomplish? Not everybody believes that anything practical can come from a formal organization of professed optimists. A better plan is simply for the people of America to practice optimism unanimously, under the leadership of its most distinguished exponent.

THOSE demagogues and muckrakers who have been proclaiming that the courts were prosecuting and convicting only the poor and not the rich should turn their eyes toward Pittsburgh. In that city recently several bankers and business men, charged with bribery and other offenses, have been promptly tried, convicted and sentenced to prison. In New York City recently two eminent bankers were convicted and one of them was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment for a violation of the banking law. Cruel wrong is done by those who constantly seek to array the poor against the rich and to misrepresent the latter as void of sympathy and all the kindly instincts of humanity. When we stop to think that most of our rich men of to-day were the poor men of a few years ago, we realize the injustice of the accusation. In this great country, where opportunities for advancement are open to all and where everyone has his rights fully safeguarded, no class distinction should be permitted to prevail. Demagogues who endeavor to create such distinction should be regarded as a menance to the public welfare and be treated accordingly.—"Leslie's Weekly."

CUBA'S SECOND START AS A NATION

One of the most remarkable things in history is the friendly and helpful interest displayed by the United States in the little republic of Cuba. Not only did this country secure the independence of the island, but also, after the latter's failure in selfgovernment, aided it to make another start as a nation. In the current issue of Leslie's Weekly, Mrs. C. R. Miller, in an illustrated article, tells of the restoration of self-goveanment in Cuba and indicates that the new experiment will be a success. The number contains one of the best picture galleries that this noted newspaper has presented to its readers. The illustrations include a cover drawing in colors by Arthur E. Jameson representing an early spring outing in an automobile: two pages of scenes connected with the inauguration of President Taft, a page of photographs showing the triumphal ending of the American battleships' cruise around the world, snapshots of the activities of New York's wonderfully efficient traffic squad of police, pictures of the curious donkey boys of Egypt, attractive and novel scenes in the far West, a variety of photos of timely events, theatrical portraits and scenes, and the ameteur photo prize contest. Harriet Quimby contributes a description of the donkeys and donkey boys of Egypt, Gilson Willets presents the concluding installment of his detective story, and there is much other interesting reading matter in the different departments. "Jasper" declares that if corporations could be relieved from unjust legislation business would receive a great impetus, points out opportunities offered in the stock market and gives his usual shrewd and reliable advice to investors and speculators.

HAWAIIAN PROSPERITY IN 1908.

Although this country suffered considerable commercial distress last year because of the late panic, our Hawaiian possessions had a most prosperous year in 1908. With the exception of the vast increase in the sugar industry, probably the most pronounced development was in the production of pineapples During the past year more than four hundred thousand cans of this fruit were exported, and this year the shippers expect a million cans. Cotton and tobacco have been introduced successfully; more sisal is being raised; and the area of the rubber groves has expanded.

The total value of Hawaiian exports, of which sugar predominates, amounted to $40,567,796 in 1908. This would represent $225 per capita when proportioned according to the present estimated population of the islands and when this is compared with the per capita money holdings in other countries Hawaii's lead over them is enormous. Estimated for one year by the last census, the per capita wealth of the United States proper is $31.40; of the United Kingdom, $17.58; of Germany, $22.40; of France, $37.13; of the Netherlands, $26.76; and of Cuba, $15.62. Even though we add all of these other per capita amounts together, that of Hawaii yet overtops the entire sum by $74.11.

DeWITT'S CARBOLIZED WITCH HAZEL SALVE For Piles, Burns, Sores.

IN announcing the intention of Theodore Roosevelt to pay a visit to England when he has ended his hunting trip in Africa, the London "Times" says that the naming of a guest assured of a reception by the British public 'more hearty and more genuine" would be a difficult, "if not impossible," task. Oxford, to quote the words of the same authority, and all Oxford men "will feel an especially lively and agreeable interest" in the announcement that he will deliver a lecture and receive a degree there next year. Whatever subject Mr. Roosevelt may choose, his audience may "rest assured they will not be called upon to listen to addresses marked by indecision of treatment, superficiality of though, or any lack of originality and comprehensiveness of outlook," For, according to this critical of British critics, Mr. Roosevelt's reputation is secure in England as "the greatest American President who has appeared since the days of Abrahom Lincoln." What it has to say of Mr. Roosevelt as man, as statesman and as writer represents—with the single exception of the London "Saturday Review"—the matured opinion of British organs generally.

The New Deputy Sheriff.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

The Facts About Pe-ru-na.

Is Peruna an alcoholic beverage in disguise? Is it possible to use Peruna as a substitute for whiskey? Do people buy Peruna and use it as a toddy, or a bitters, or a bracer?

It would be the easiest thing in the world for any one to demonstrate the falsity of such statements. Let any one go to the drug store and purchase a bottle of Peruna. Let him undertake to use it as a beverage, or take this remedy in doses considerably larger than those prescribed on the bottle. Would the result be alcoholic intoxication? Nothing of the sort. Let any one try it and see.

Peruna is a medical compound quite heavily loaded with medicinal ingredients. If taken in doses larger than prescribed it would produce a positive drug effect. No one could take it as a beverage. If any one doubts these statements, try it and see. We know that Peruna cannot be used as a beverage; that it will not intoxicate; that it cannot be used as a substitute for liquors. We guarantee that PERUNA CONTAINS NO CHEAP WHISKEY—OR ANY OTHER WHISKEY, for that matter.

It contains a small per cent. of cologne spirits, absolutely essential to dissolve and hold in solution medicinal ingredients, but the drugs contained in Peruna prohibit its use as a beverage. It would be the easiest thing in the world for any one to demonstrate this if they chose to do so.

Peruna is sold everywhere. THE INGREDIENTS ARE PLAINLY PRINTED ON EACH BOTTLE. It has been said over and over again that chemists have analyzed Peruna and found it to contain only cubebs and whiskey. Now we challenge any chemist to demonstrate any such statement. Let any one who has even a smattering knowledge of chemistry purchase a bottle of Peruna and see whether or not it contains whiskey, find out for himself whether or not it is composed of cheap whiskey and cubebs. Of course, cubebs is one of the ingredients of Peruna, but there are many other ingredients. It contains hydrastis canadensis, corydalis formosa, collinsonia, and at least four other medicinal ingredients. To be sure, no chemist could so analyze Peruna as to be able to identify the various medicinal ingredients. This is beyond the ability of any chemist. But any ordinary chemist would be able to say that Peruna is heavily loaded with medicinal ingredients of some kind in addition to cubebs.

Now why are these statements repeated when their falsity could be so easily demonstrated? Simply because there is continued hostility toward Peruna on the part of the medical profession. Very likely the magazines which took up the crusade against Peruna and denounced it as a cheap beverage were misled by statements of the medical profession. Probably they were sincere in their attitude towards it. But now, after all these things have been said and refuted, it would seem to be in order for such people to use a little fairness and common sense in the matter.

Every time any one says that Peruna is nothing but cheap whiskey and cubebs he is telling a lie, an absolute falsehood. Most people intend to speak the truth. But the prevalent habit of repeating other people's statements, without investigation as to their truth, has led many well-meaning people to say these false things about Peruna.

Used according to the directions on the bottle, PERUNA IS A SAFE AND RELIABLE CATARRH REMEDY, but, like any other good medicine, if taken in excess of those doses, it will produce drug effects very unpleasant to the person who takes it.

It is therefore up to every honest person to quit making such statements concerning Peruna, or acknowledge that he is repeating slanders about which he knows nothing. One might just as well say that Castor Oil is an intoxicant; that if taken in large enough doses it will operate as a "booze." If people never tried to see, but simply repeated such statements about Castor Oil, the majority of people would come to believe them. It is no easier to demonstrate such a statement about Castor Oil than it would be about Peruna.

Any one who takes Peruna knows that such statements are false. To say that Peruna is cheap whiskey and cubebs may constitute good material for jokes on the vaudeville stage, but there is no excuse for any one who pretends to be truthful saying over again this oft-repeated falsehood.

Sleep

Sleep is nature's rebuilding period, when the energy used by the brain, muscles and organs is renewed. If you lose sleep, your system is robbed of the strength sleep should give. Continued loss of sleep multiplies this loss until you become a physical wreck. Dr. Miles' Nervine quiets the irritated nerves and brings refreshing, invigorating sleep. Nervine contains no opiates, and therefor leaves no bad after-effects.

"For over two years I suffered untold agonies; my friends thought I was going crazy. I could not sleep nor rest at all. I tried different doctors, but failed to find relief. My head would ache all the time; I was like one drunk; could not concentrate my mind, and was so restless and worried that sleep was out of the question. After taking one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine I felt wonderfully changed. I am now on my third bottle and am gaining all the time. I can lie down and sleep like a child, and am able to do my work."

Clearfield's Last Timber to Be Cut

In the near future construction work will begin on the mammoth sawmill the Whitmer-Steele Company, of Sunbury, will erect at Hawk run, three miles north of Philipsbury, and the cutting of the last big timber tract in the Clearfield region, famous for its lumber operations will begin.

The Witmer-Steele company purchased the tract in Graham and Morris townships known as the Forcey estate, most of which is heavily timbered with white pine. In addition, the adjoining Schoonover and Wilson tracts were bought by the company. The tract contains about 8000 acres. From it and two adjoining tracts the Whitmer-Steele Company estimates it will cut 150,000,000 feet of lumber. The job will last from six to eight years and will give employment to hundreds of men at chopping, teaming, bark peeling and mill work.

Mr. Douty an experienced lumber operator of West Virginia, has been placed in charge of the work, saw mill construction and the building of a sawmill, a narrow gauge railroad, on which steam engines will be used to haul the logs from the woods to the mill. As both the Pennsylvania and the New York Central touch at Hawk run, the company will have excellent shipping facilities for the product of the mill.

Superintendent Douty has located at Philipsburg, where the local office of the company will be established.

The musical entertainment given in the United Evangelical church last Thursday evening proved a success in every way and those having it in charge are to be highly complimented for the able manner in which it was executed. Notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a good attendance and although the price of admission was small the proceeds amounted to about $25. Every number on the program was enthusiastically received by the audience and every participant displayed special ability and careful preparation by those who participated. It is hoped that such entertainments may be more frequent.

As has been the case for several years past there is a scarcity of houses in Howard this spring. Homeseeker have been on the alert for some time and every house in town will be occupied. During the spring and summer several new ones will be erected. Those who contemplate building are George Williams, George Leathers, Mrs. R. J. Snyder, J. Will Mayes, and Comer Shope.

Recitations by Fleming James, Willard Neff, Gladys Holter, Dorothy Weber, Donald Shay, Geneive Percher. Singing, "Brooklet of the Mountain," Recitation by Rosetta Schenck. Then followed a debate on the question. 'Is the invention of deadly instruments of war, such as dynamite and machine guns, of interest to mankind? Affirmative speakers—Harold Schenck, Maude Thomas, Russell Gardner, Susie Confer, Harry Muffly. Negative speakers—George Fleener, Philip Hurd, Stuart Taylor, Lauretta Weber, Paul Hurd. The judges decided two to one in favor of the negative. The schools then sang "With Joy and Gladness." Recitations by John Williams, Helen Krape, Ruth Kane, Mable Cummings, Marian Cooke. Nature has just one pigment on her palette with which she produces all the marvelous tints of beauty, and that one pigment is the blood. The shell-like pink beneath the finger nails, the delicate rose of the cheek, the cherry ripeness of the lips, the irridescent brilliance of the eyes are all produced by the blood. Just as the permanence of a beautiful painting will depend upon the purity of the colors with which it is painted, so the permanence of beauty depends on the purity of the blood. Paint, powder and cosmetics won't avail to preserve beauty. Beauty begins in the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a true beautifier, because it provides for nature that pure blood with which alone she can paint. The use of this medicine will cleanse the skin heighten the complexion, brighten the eyes, and give to face and form that radiance of health which is the greatest charm of beauty. This is not a 'patent medicine" because every bottle bears upon its wrapper a full list of the ingredients. Send for free booklet to R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Academy Paper.

(Clipping from Feb. Number.)

The paper is here now to stay. It is established in its new quarters—The Sanctum Sanctorum. It is awaiting the help and contributions of the student-body. As you will see, we have succeeded in securing some ads. from our merchants but the number is far too small. Our Board of Managers report that the scarcity is due to two facts—viz 1st, the uncertainty of the venture; 2nd, the novelty of the movement. We take that to mean that our merchants are waiting to see the permanence insured, and that hitherto such calling upon them for ad. contribution has been unknown.

There are a few points we wish to mention right here, and we ask every student of this Academy to follow them carefully and accept them. First—Money is a necessity and it can be obtained only through advertising. Second—The ads. must come from local dealers. Third—We must let them see our appreciation, and Fourth—Those who patronize us, we must patronize. Now this means that while we are not propagating the doctrines of Boycott, yet we must let our sentiments be shown in one way or another. The line of business often determines the attitude, but when some of the business institutions refuse to help us—as they have—who receive the biggest share of our trade, it is high time to resent it and to make our resentments felt. Now in two or three cases that will be somewhat of a sacrifice for us,—but stick it through! While we don't wish to antagonize anyone, we do like to have those who profit by us, show their appreciation in other than words. Money talks! As it has already been, so it will be from time to time, circulated among the student body, those flagrant refusals from men profiting well from us. And that means they don't wish you any more—so keep away! At the same time do all in your power to convince the community of the worth of the paper, the good intentions of the student body, and the blessings of co-operation.

No school can flourish in a community which will not support it. It would be the death-knell to this Institution to publish abroad that local friction prevents any harmonious progress. Now this is not the case; but the question is raised; and it is up to the community to realize that they don't wish the Academy closed, that as we profit—so they profit; the more we have—the more they have. We are especially in this peculiar circumstance, and need the open expression of the community, now that we no longer have the certain personality of Mr. James. Now students, do your part and win the community. The old doctrine of "get and keep" is passe; it is now—"sow and Reap."

To Establish a Large Orchard

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 26.—George W. Sloop, state horticultural expert of Pennsylvania, is in the Northwest as representative of a syndicate of Pennsylvania and Ohio capitalists, spying out land for the establishment of a large orchard. He has visited the largest orchards in the Yakima, Wenatchee, Spokane, Toucet and Columbia river valleys and will go into the Hood River and other districts in Oregon and central Idaho, also taking in the Boundary district in southeastern British Columbia. He said in an interview:

"Conditions and opportunities for orchardists in the northwest are favorable, but I have not as yet made up my mind as where the best location for a large orchard may be had. When I have finished my trip through the Northwest I shall return to the east, confer with my backers and then return to this country. At that time I shall decide upon a location and establish an orchard."

Mr. Sloop talked with many orchardists and ranchers in eastern and central Washington, and, while he admitted he was not familiar with the soil and climatic conditions, he was able to give them valuable information of a general nature, including hints on the correct method of pruning trees. He also noted that in the central Washington valleys there is a tendency to plant too many varieties. The list, he said, should be confined to two or three of the best varieties to be decided upon by conditions and the markets, and then brought up to the highest state of perfection, adding that in this way the best results will be obtained from commercial orchards.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

March 14th. 1909.

Aeness and Doreas. Acts 9:31-43.

Golden Text.—And Peter said unto him: Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole, arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.—Acts 9:34.

Verse 31.—Do darkness and light, fighting and victory, sorrow and joy, persecution and "rest" alternate and enter into every normal Christian life today, as in the Christian Community in the beginning?

When a church walks in "the fear of God" and "the comfort of the Holy Spirit," is it always multiplied?

Verse 32.—Was there any institution, in the Apostolic age, to correspond with our settled pastorate?

If preachers were to follow the Apostolic plan, of "passing throughout all quarters," would the final conquest of the world be hastened?

To whom did the name "saint" apply in those days, and should we continue the use of it in these days?

Verses 33, 34.—Is all sickness of the Devil?

Are some people sick by the special dispensation of God?

Does not God take most people to heaven through sickness?

What proportion of sickness is avoidable?

Are we to assume that God wants to cure everybody from their sickness, the same as he does from their sin?

Was Aeneas cured through his own faith, or by the power and pleasure of God, without faith?

What is the difference in this cure and modern faith healing methods?

Is God's ideal for us, sickness or health?

Does God cure some people today in a similar way to the cure of this man?

Is faith for the cure of sickness a special gift of God, and are we not instructed that God will cure the sick in answer to such faith?

Verse 35—When God does cure some cases of noted sickness, what are the results in the community?

If the Church should have the power restored of healing sickness, would that produce a permanent revival?

Verses 36-38.—Is it as a rule possible for a Christian to live without doing good?

How do you classify those who content themselves with going to church and prayer meeting, and talking and praying and are not following Jesus in "going about doing good?"

Why did God permit Dorcas to die?

Why does God sometimes permit those to die upon whom so much depends: the bread-winner of the family, the mother of little children, the pillar in the church or the "Dorcas" in the community.

Verse 39.—Should a Christian always be ready to go to the home of sorrow, to render help and impart comfort?

It is a beautiful custom to speak of the good deeds of the dead, and it is well kept up; but is there not almost criminal neglect in speaking of the good deeds of the living? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club)

Verses 40-43—Is there any use today in praying that the dead be raised?

Who did God raise the dead in those and not in these days?

What great purpose has that miraculous age served?

Even if these miracles should prove to be but legends, will it effect one iota, any essential truth of Christianity?

Highly Treasured Relic.

Rev Dr. D. S. Monroe, of New Cumberland, whom many of our people know has a relic of Abraham Lincoln which he treasures highly, it is a letter written by the president, and hangs in Dr. Monroe's home. In 1862 Dr. Monroe was assistant secretary of the East Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which met in Baltimore and passed resolutions complimenting the president. President Lincoln wrote the reply with his own hand. When the conference dissolved the letter was given to Dr. Monroe, who was then secretary. The letter is as follows:

Executive Mansion,
Washington, March 18, 1862

"Rev. J. A. Gere,"
"Rev. A. A. Reese, D. D.,"
"George D. Cheonoweth:

"Gentlemen:—Allow me to tender to you and through you, to the East Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, my grateful thanks for the preambles and resolutions of the body, copies of which you did the honor to present yesterday. These kind words of approval, coming from so numerous a body of Inteligent Christian people, and so free from all suspicion of sinister motives, are encouraging to me. By the help of an all wise Providence, I shall endeavor to do my duty; and I shall expect the continuation of your prayers for a right solution of our national difficulties, and the restoration of our country to peace and prosperity.

"Your obedient and humble servant."

"A Lincoln."

"What's the Use?"

Clever Jack Barrymore, from that famous family of actors in America, is now playing the leading part in "The Stubborn Cinderella" at the Broadway Theatre, New York. He sings a song called "What's the Use?" that is about the best thing that ever came out of Chicago, where the "Stubborn Cinderella" comes from. It's a great show and a good song. Words and music complete will be given with next Sunday's New York World.

VERDICT AGAINST THE SUGAR TRUST

Jury in Government Suit Awards $134,116.03.

New York, March 6.—In a little over an hour the jury in the sugar fraud cases in the federal court agreed upon a verdict against the American Sugar Refining company, of New York, for the full amount claimed by the United States government—$134,116.03.

In charging the jury, Judge Holt said:

"These complaints are based on the proposition that a device was used which caused the scales to register untrue weight, thereby depriving the government of its lawful duty charges.

"It is a penal action, a punitive forfeiture, but this forfeiture applies only to such packages as the fraud applied to, but when they have gone into consumption, suit must be brought for the value in money of the alleged falsely weighed packages."

John B. Stanchfield, of counsel for the American Sugar Refining company, made a motion for a new trial, which Judge Holt promptly denied. The defense will appeal at once and has sixty days in which to prepare it.

GOOD, HONEST, SQUARE-DEAL

Medicines like those of Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, warrant their makers in printing their every ingredient, which they do, upon their outside wrappers, verifying the correctness of the same under oath. This open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves. Furthermore, it warrants physicians in prescribing them largely as they do in their worst cases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and bowels, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), liver, bowels (as mucous diarrhea), or other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine.

For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American, medicinal, forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum. Don't do it.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Mrs: Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter forthis very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is a direct aid straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. INAUGURAL GUEST WAS MURDERED

Man, With $300 Money Order, Found Dead Near Capital.

RAGGED WOUND IN NECK

Police Regard the Case as One of Cold Blooded Murder, But Motive Is Lacking, as Money and Watch Were Found Upon the Body—In Doubt as to Man's Identity.

Washington, March 8.—The body of a well dressed man, partially covered with snow, and a ragged wound in the neck, was found near Alexandria, Va., a short distance from Washington. In the pockets of the clothing were a travellers' check for $300, issued by the Wells Fargo Express company at Los Angeles, Cal., payable to Walter F. Schultz; a card bearing the same name, but with an address of 1314 Dougles street, Sioux City, Ia., and another card which bears the name of Mrs. Alma Hume Gillette.

The police regard the case as one of cold blooded murder and as one of the most mystifying crimes ever committed in this section. A motive for the murder is lacking, and the identity of the man supposed to be Schultz is by no means complete. Cards and other papers found in the victim's clothes are believed to have been put there by his slayer.

The theory that the man committed suicide is not credited, because of the peculiar character of the wound and the fact that no weapon of any sort was found near his body. The police also assert that it is improbable that robbery was the motive, as $28 in cash and a gold watch were found in the pockets of the victim.

After working upon all sorts of clues, the Alexandria police are still in doubt as to the man's identity and the manner in which he met his death. One theory is that the murdered man was an inauguration visitor who was lured away from the city, murdered and his body thrown into a field where it was found, about 400 yards from the Alexandria railroad station.

The authorities believe they will establish the identity of the victim from a letter, without envelope, evidently belonging to the dead man. It was dated "Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 30," and was signed "Your sister, Ellen Dorothy."

The dead man was apparently about thirty-five years old and his appearance was that of a prosperous business man.

KEARSARGE AT LEAGUE ISLAND

The Big Battleship to Be Thoroughly Overhauled.

Philadelphia, March 8.—The battleship Kearsarge, the second of the round the world fleet to reach here, arrived at League Island. Today she was taken to the back bay to be thoroughly overhauled. Although the Kearsarge had more mascots than any other vessel in the fleet, she returned with fewer. The kangaroo, goats and scores of smaller animals fell victims to the stormy weather she encountered, while the bear had to be sold because of his fondness for the officers' clothes.

Arrested After Six Months' Chase.

San Francisco, March 8.—Emil Jordan, who is said to be wanted in New York on several charges, including the murder of a policeman, jail breaking on Ellis island, forgery and bringing young women from France in violation of the immigration laws, was captured here by secret service officers and local detectives. The federal authorities have been searching for him for six months.

Negroes Give Foraker a Loving Cup.

Washington, March 8.—Former Senator Joseph B. Foraker was presented with a massive silver loving cup by the negro residents of Washington in appreciation of his fight in the United States senate to have the battalion of the Twenty-fifth infantry, discharged as a result of the "shooting up" of Brownsville, Tex., restored to the army.

Saves Life Holding to Bull's Horns.

El Paso, Tex., March 8.—El Gallo, a noted Spanish matador, who is fighting in Mexico, and is about to return to Spain to fight before the king and queen, was gored while fighting a bull. He was tossed into the air, and hung to the horns of the anraged animal, which alone saved him.

Night Rider Breaks Jail.

Union City, Tenn., March 8.—Hirschel Hogg, a confessed member of the band of "night riders" who murdered Captain Quentin Rankin at Walnut Log in Octiber, 1908, escaped from jail at Dresden and has not been recaptured.

Kicked Out of Bed; Gets Divorce.

Stamford, Conn., March 8.—Elibabeth H. McFarland, a nurse, was granted a divorce from her husband, a masseur, because, she charged, he "kicked her out of bed" several times.

The Weather.

Forecast for this section: Rain this afternoon and tonight; tomorrow, rain or snow and colder; increasing easterly winds.

A Boy's Essay on the Editor.

"I don't know how newspapers came to be in the world, and I don't think God does, for he hain't got nothing to say about them in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of and strayed into the bushes until after the flood and then came out and wrote things up and has been here ever since. I don't know if he ever died. I never saw a dead one and never heard of one getting licked. Our paper is a mighty good one; but the editor goes without underclothes all winter and don't wear any socks and pa hain't paid his subscription since the paper started. I asked pa if that was the reason the editor had to suck juice out of snowballs in the winter and go to bed when he had his shirt washed in summer.

"Then pa got mad and took me out in wood shed and licked me awful hard. If the editor makes mistakes folks says he ought to be hung; but if a doctor makes mistakes he buries them and people don't say, nothing because doctors can read and write Latin. When the editor makes mistakes there is lawsuits' and swearing and a big fuss; but if the doctor make one there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a mile long without him or anybody knowin' what it means; but if the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges the man for the visit; but if the editor goes he gets a charge of buckshot. Any college can make a doctor to order, but an editor has to be born."—Exchange.

Phone and Telegraph Companies at Odds.

An effort is being made by telephone companies doing business in certain sections of the state to collect extra tolls for telegraph messages that have been delivered by means of the telephone.

The telegraph companies hold that they pay a rental for phones, and have a right to use them for any purpose they desire and that they will refuse to deliver messages by phone if tolls are charged.

The telephone companies take the stand that if they did not have their lines in operation the telegraph companies would lose the tolls they now collect for messages going to outlying districts reached only by phone and for that reason assert that part of the tolls on such messages should be paid to the telephone company delivering the message.

AUTO TAKES PLACE OF HORSE

President and Family to Use Motors Almost Exclusively.

WILL HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

New Machines Will Bear on Each Door the Official Coat of Arms of the United States and Will Know No Speed Limit In District of Columbia.

Washington, March 8.—No longer will the terms "the president's carriage" and "the president's driver" be in vogue, for with the new administration come the terms "the president's auto car" and "the president's chauffeur." Automobiles will be almost the exclusive method of locomotion of President Taft and his family. The White House automobiles will have the right of way throughout the District of Columbia and will know no speed limit.

Two splendid new machines already have been purchased with the $12,000 appropriated by congress for this purpose, and Mr. Taft has given them a thorough try-out. One is a good weather machine, a big touring car with detachable top, and painted in dark green of three shades. This will be the car most used by the president. The other car has a limousine body, painted in black, and was purchased for the use of Mrs. Taft. Both bear on each door the official coat of arms of the United States. The cars are in charge of experts sent from the factories, who will turn the machines over to the official White House head chauffeur, to be appointed later, and who will receive a salary of $100 per month. He will have one assistant.

The White House garage will be located in the present stables used for the president's horses and carriages. Hereafter the stables will be a combination garage and horse stable. Besides the two automobiles they will quarter seven horses which will be at the disposal of Secretary Fred Carpenter and his assistants and for other uses of the executive offices.

TARIFF REVISION BY JUNE

Will Take at Least Two Months to Consider New Schedules.

Washington, March 8.—When congress meets on the 15th instant upon the call of the president, to consider a revision of the tariff, there will be no constitutional restriction upon the nature of business that may be transacted. It is generally conceded that at least two months will be required for the house of representatives to conclude consideration of all the schedules involved in this legislation. The house itself will not receive the bill for some weeks, as the committee on ways and means will require considerable time to report the measure. During this long period the senate will have nothing to do in respect to the tariff, and even after the bill leaves the house it will be in the hands of the committee on finance for some time before the senate actually gets possession of it and the debate begins. Then will begin a long wait by the house of representatives until the senate amendments can be known and conferees appointed to bring about an agreement upon them.

FOUR PERSONS DROWNED

Mother and Three Children Swept From Bridge by Flood.

Parker, S. D., March 7.—Mrs. Herman Feikens and her three children were drowned while trying to drive across the Vermillion river, being swept from a bridge by the flood.

Ice Breaks; Two Little Boys Drown.

Marine City, Mich., March 8.—Patrick and Jerry Thomas, brothers, aged three and four years respectively, lost their lives by drowning in the St. Clair river when the ice on which they were playing gave way.

DECREASE IN EXPORTS

Dropped $50,000,000 In January as Compared With Last Year.

Washington, March 8.—In January last there was a falling off of about $50,000,000 in the total value of the country's exports, as compared with those of January, 1908; while for the seven months ending with January last the total exports amounted to $1,031,719,944, against $1,189,090,551 in the corresponding seven months of the previous fiscal year, a fall of $157,000,000 in the seven months in question.

Taft Pays His Own Barber.

Washington, March 8.—Monico Lopez, the Filipino valet that Mr. Taft brought from Manila, has succeeded William Dulaney as the barber to the president. It was announced that Monico would not be placed on the government pay roll, but would remain a private employe of the president.

Boy, Whipped, Played Suicide.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 8.—Abe, the eleven-year-old son of Israel Cohen, was whipped by his father because he objected to being sent to bed. Shortly afterward he was found in a stupor and rushed to a hospital. Later Abe left the hospital. The doctors say no poison was found in the lad's stomach

PENSIONS FOR GUARDSMAN.

Legislation in Favor of N. G. P. will be Welcomed.

A most praiseworthy law is now being drafted by Adjutant General Stewart, which if enacted, will provide a long needed want in the armed forces of the State. The measure is a pension bill, which provides that sufficient evidence being presented to the State Military Board of the death of a soldier in the N. G. P., or of the State Naval Force, from injuries received while in line of duty or being killed while in active service, under the orders of the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, the board, in its wisdom, may allow a pension not exceeding $12 per month to the widow minor children or other dependants. The board is to be given the power to determine when the pension shall cease. When first allowed the pension will be for not exceeding five years, but the board may, according to the necessity extend the payments for a second five years, making ten years in all.

For years past the lack of some such law has been seriously felt, whenever a case arose in which a pension was clearly the due of some individual, it required and does now require that a special act of the Legislature was and is necessary to accomplish it.

General Stewart has done much for the National Guard of Pennsylvania, but with the enactment of this proposed pension law he will have accomplished that which will add more to his fame than all which had gone before.

"Don't Sell Him Another Drink"

Mrs. W. C. S., of W. Bethlehem, kindly sends the words of this ballad, recently asked for.

Don't sell him another drink, please,
He's reeling already you see.
I fear when he comes home tonight
He'll beat my poor mother and me.
She's waiting in darkness and cold,
And dreading to hear him come home,
He treats her so bad when he's drunk,
So don't sell pa any more rum.

I heard mother praying last night;
She thought I was soundly asleep.
She asked God her husband to keep
His soul from temptation and drink,
She cried like her poor heart would break
I tried to comfort her sobe;
I told her I would ask you today
Not to sell pa any more rum.

Why don't you keep something to sell
That will not make people so bad?
That will not cause mothers to weep,
And kind fathers cruel and bad?
I know it is hard, I can see,
You're angry because I have come.
Forgive a poor sad little child,
And don't sell pa any more rum.

F. E. B.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb—means Freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparille gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

Men of the Right Sort.

A young man with a practical knowledge in his head, skill in his hands and health in his body, is his own letter of reference. Mix him up with six million of others and you will find him again, as he has a habit of being on top. Throw him naked onto a desert island and he will be at the head of something. He does not go whining over the land claiming fortunes and says he has no chance but goes out and does it again and better. Men that can do things either with head or hands are the men that are wanted and the demand is as great here and now as it has been at any time since the beginning.

FIFTY MEN RESCUED FROM BURNING MINE

One Man, Too Heavy to Be Carried, Lost His Life.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 4.—A fire was discovered in the Baltimore tunnel, operated by the Delaware & Hudson Coal company, at East End, a short distance from this city. At the time there were fifty men in the mine. When the alarm was given twenty-five of them managed to make their escape through a gangway, the escape of the others being cut off by the fire. By heroic work of the mine officials the imprisoned men were rescued, and all but one was saved by being brought out through what is known as No. 2 slope.

One miner John E. Walsh, aged thirty-five, who was a very heavy man, weighing over 300 pounds, lost his life. He was overcome by the smoke. An attempt was made to carry him out, but owing to his weight this was impossible. The men who were carrying him at the last moment became exhausted from the dense smoke and were obliged to make a desperate effort themselves to reach a place of safety. The fire was quickly subdued from the fact that there had been no gas in this particular vicinity.

Some of the miners contend that the fire was caused by a quantity of powder becoming ignited, which exploded and set fire to the timbers.

Methodist Conference meets in Harrisburg

The forty-first annual meeting of the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, will convene in the Fifth street church in Harrisburg on March 24th. This will be the sixth time the conference has met in the capital city during the past forty years. The conference of 1879 convened on the 22nd. day of March, in Grace church during the pastorate of Rev. E. A. Holmes, and was presided over by Bishop Wiley, the Rev. Dr. Monroe, now pastor of the New Cumberland church, was secretary. Ten years later, on the 11th. day of March, 1886, the sessions were held in the Ridge avenue church, Rev. B. C. Conner, pastor, and were presided over by Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu, now of Auburndale, Mass. The other conferences were as follows: Year 1894 Fifth Street church Rev. G. K. Stevens pastor; Bishop Hurst, presiding. Year 1899, Ridge Ave methodist church, Rev. A. R. Lambert, pastor; Bishop Charles H. Fowler, presiding. Year 1904, Fifth street church Rev. B. H. Hart, pastor; Bishop Charles C. Macabe, presiding. Bishop Wiley, Hurst, Fowler and McCabe have since ceased their labors in the church militant and have gone to their reward. Bishop Mallalieu alone survives. The conference of 1909 will be held in the Fifth Street church, making the third time that the honor has been conferred on that church and twice during the pastorate of Rev. B. H. Hart. Bishop John W. Hamilton, D. D., of Boston, will preside. Bishop Hamilton is one of the most able men in the church and the magnificent results of his work on the Pacific coast demonstrates the fact that he is a tireless worker. He was elected to the bishopric by the general conference of 1900. This conference will bring to the city more than three hundred preachers as well as scores of laymen, who are always very much in evidence, looking after the interests of their respective churches.

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it.

Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

—In spite of the high prices the opera house was crowded Tuesday evening to witness the performance of Alfred E. Aaron's company in "Yama." This musical comedy is one of the best that has appeared here this season. There are no dull moments, and Violet Corby and Clarence Harvey are leading entertainers. William Meyers delighted the audience with his singing. The dancing dolls captured the audince and their encores were most emphatic. Their lightness of foot was something wonderful. Georgeia Bryton was very clever and laughable as Roxie. The scenery and costumes were something fine and the music of the orchestra added a great deal to the enjoyment of the evening.

Wanderer Imagined he was a Murderer.

The man who Wednesday said he was Alexander Rosenbloom, of Windber, the alleged murderer of his father, strengthened the belief of the Clearfield officials that he was the murderer, Thursday by attempting to hang himself. He was discovered before he could do himself any harm.

Following this action Windber was communicated with, and facts that would show whether or not they had the right man given the officers. A careful investigation followed, and while the prisoner very closely resembles Rosenbloom, he was found to lack many important marks of identification.

Later in the day the man began to talk, saying that his name was Gilan and later Mullen, of Anita, Jefferson county. He said he lived there, and after much difficulty relatives were found, and he was taken to that place. His story concerning the murder of Rosenbloom was given. Before starting away from Clearfield, Mullen said that he spent considerable time at Windber, and was well acquainted with Alexander Rosenbloom. It is believed that by brooding over the crime, Mullen's mind had become deranged, and that for a time he believed himself to be Rosenbloom.

Alexander Cooper, 78 years of age, a resident of Pocopson township, is confined in a cell of the Chester county prison for non-payment of his road and school taxes, amounting to $1.50.

He has been a prisoner several days and many of his friends would gladly settle his indebtedness in order to obtain his release, but he insists that he will not permit any such friendly act.

He has no children to go to school and he declares that because of this he should not be taxed. For twenty years he has failed to comply with the request of the tax collector. He engaged council Monday for the purpose of making an effort to gain his freedom without paying the tax bill.

Falls 100 Feet off Church.

Although he dropped 100 feet from a church steeple early Monday morning, Walter Billings, of Trenton, N. J. a steeplejack, still lives. Physicians say he may recover, although he will never be able to ascend another steeple.

What probably saved his life was that he landed in a quantity of hay in the rear of the church of SS. Peter and Paul.

Billings has been a steeplejack for fifteen years, and this is the first accident to befall him. He became dizzy at the great height, and lost his grip on the flimsy scaffolding that was supporting him.

KALBFUS REPLIES TO HARTER.

Gives His Version of the Deer Law and Their Tilt Before the State Legislative Committee.

HARRISBURG, PA.
March 8, 1909.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN,

Dear Sir:--

I am just in receipt of a clipping from the Keystone Weekly Gazette from Bellefonte, published under the date of March 5th, 1909; entitled "A sharp tilt with Dr. Kalbfus."

In this article the editor of that paper has pictured himself as quite a hero. I am sorry to say that to do this he has seen fit to warp the facts and make many statements not in accord with what really happened. How the gentlemen came to be present at that meeting, I do not know; but am of the opinion that the invitation he refers to came from the editor to himself. It is possible he had notice of the meeting from some one, but that is neither here nor there. He was present and knows that the statements he makes in his issue of March 5th are not fair, either to himself or to anyone else connected with the matter. He knows that the Committee he met with are gentlemen who would not be influenced against what they considered right by Dr. Kalbfus or by anyone else, no matter what his position might be. He knows that the bill limiting the killing of deer in this State to a male deer with horns did not eminate from Dr. Kalbfus or from the Game Commission. He knows that it did originate with Peter Gearhart, of Clearfield county, who had the bill drafted at his own home and then presented it to the House without even the knowledge of the Game Commission. He knows that Dr. Kalbfus as an individual was opposed to it for reasons quite as far as back as 1904, in his printed report to the Game Commission, following it repeatedly up to the time this bill was before the Legislature. He knows this is so, because copies of these reports were sent to him. He admitted before the Committee that one of the officers of the Game Commission had recently told him Dr. Kalbfus was opposed to this bill at the time it was passed. Yet honest man that he is and in command of a newspaper, that he knows will reach and influence many people that I will never know, or see, or in any way reach, he writes and published what he knows is not all the truth. I may be getting old, but my tongue has never yet been used to misrepresent or deceive for any reason, or to tell half a truth for the purpose of gaining a point.

In the first place before the Committee meeting opened I showed this gentleman a letter from T. S. Palmer, of the Biological Survey at Washington, D. C., a copy of which I herewith inclose to you and call his attention to that part wherein it is stated that 18 men had been killed during the past hunting season in five States of this Union,- not killed accidentally, but in mistake for deer; and that many more than that had been wounded in mistake for deer. I called his attention to that part of the letter that stated fully 100 men had been killed during the last hunting season through the use of guns in hunting, and that many times that number had been wounded. The taking of human life or the crippling of human beings appears to be nothing to this editor as against his right to kill deer. I called his attention to the fact that while these men had all been killed in five states, that permitted the killing of does, not one single person had been killed in the nine states where does could not be legally killed. This meant nothing to this great hunter from Centre county, who asked me with a sneer how many men had been killed in Pennsylvania last year; and I said, none. He then asked me how many were killed the year before, and I said two. He asked how many hunters and I said in my opinion about 20,000 deer hunters, and while about 130,000 with shot guns had hunted throughout the State for other than deer. I told him that many of the 20,000 men who had hunted deer with rifles favored this law, for I had met dozens of such hunters who had expressed this idea to me. I do not say hundreds, although I am satisfied I would have been within bounds if I had used that word.

This gentleman claims to represent the hunters of Clearfield, Centre and Clinton counties. I told him he did not represent all of these hunters, as I had met many of them who support this measure. I told him that of the 130,000 who used shot guns I do not know one, but who thought he was just as much entitled to protection as were deer. He asked me with a sneer, why, if I opposed this bill four years ago, I favored it now, and I told him because it saved human lives and that the life of the man killed was worth more to that man and to his family than all the deer in Pennsylvania. I told him, he could well afford to sneer so long as he was not hurt himself, but that I feel confident, that should he be injured in mistake for deer, he would be the first to squeal and that his squeal would be continued longer than that of most men in this State. I told him I believe it was the duty of the State to supply game, so that men could have the recreation and pleasure of hunting. I described my position upon this matter, so that he could not be mistaken about where I stood. Yet in this article he pretends in his extreme honesty to be impressed with the idea that Senator Cochran, the Game Commission and Dr. Kalbfus, and every other man in the State who favored the buck law was doing it simply to harrass and annoy honest men and keep them out of their rights.

All that I can say, is shame upon such people. I told this editor publicly that I felt I represented the majority of all the hunters in this State, that I felt that I was right in this position. I believe the bird hunters, the rabbit hunters, the squirrel hunters, the lumberman, the land-owner or any other man who desired to go into the woods the last two weeks of November has just as much right to go there as has the deer hunter and being a human being is just as much entitled to protection as are deer or any other animal that moves in the woods. I assert that under the old law there was not one minute of their life during all the open season for deer, when any one of these men was not liable to be shot in mistake for deer, by some one who saw the brush move and heard it crack, and like this editor putting no value on human life, when compared with the right to kill a deer, was ready to discharge his gun at that object. If this is not so, why did many of the deer hunters three years ago wear red hats and have red cloths sewed on different parts of their garments?

This gentleman said before this Committee that any man who killed a deer on the first day of the season was compelled to leave the woods under the present law. I desire to say that this is not the truth. The man who killed a deer upon the first day has just as much right to hunt, to drive, as any other man, although he does not have the right to kill a second deer. From the argument made by this editor, it seems that this feature of the law, limiting the killing of deer to one to an individual is also wrong. This gentleman asserts before that Committee that any man who now went to hunt was either a "fool or a criminal." This I also deny. I know numbers of honest men who went hunting last fall and much enjoyed the privilege of seeing a doe and traveling through the woods, and who had no wish to shoot contrary to the provisions of the law. This gentleman said the hunters of Centre county, who a few years ago were ready to help to enforce the law in every way, now stood ready to either violate that law or permit others to violate it with impunity. This may be the case with the editor and some of his friends. I know it is not the case with many of the hunters in Centre county, for I am in receipt of many letters from just such honest hunters last fall. Some of them refer to violations of the law by men with whom this editor associates in his county. I know there are plenty of honest hunter all over this State, who while they may not agree with the provisions of the law obey that law simply because it is the law.

The Game Commission of Pennsylvania was created to protect and preserve and not to destroy, and we are trying to fulfill the purpose of our creation, We are frequently in receipt of letters from sportsmen asking for information as to where game can be found the most plentiful, &c., to which we without exception have replied, that the Game Commission was not a Bureau of information upon this subject, and refused to direct any man in the State. We could direct men to Centre county to kill every deer in that county in a single season, were we disposed to do so. We have never sent any man into any county. We are trying to protect the game and wildbirds for the benefit of all the people and in accordance with what we consider the wish of the majority of the people. If because of that effort we incur the ill-will of some, so be it. We must take what we get. One thing is sure, no Member of the Game Commission will attempt to preach anarchism or counsel men to violate the law, because Members of the Legislature may see fit to pass a bill that to them appears to be wrong. I thank God, for preserving my tongue that it may speak for the right. From the manner of this letter of March 5th I am led to believe there if some motive actuating this editor than appears upon the surface. I believe time will unveil this editor's purpose. I am content to wait. I sincerely hope you may see your way clear to a publication of this letter.

Respectfully Yours,
JOSEPH KALBFUS,
Secretary of Game Commission.

Endless Chain.

This letter called an endless chain letter is found in many a home in this section at the present time, I hereby give a verbation copy.

Endless chain prayer—Oh! Lord Jesus Christ, we implore thee eternal God, to have mercy, on all mankind. Keep us from all sin by thy precious blood, and take us to be with thee eternally. Amen

This prayer was sent by Bishop Lawrence sending it to be sent to nine different persons. He or she who will not send it will be afflicted with some dreadful calamity, one person paid no attention to it and met with a dreadful accident. They who will rewrite this to nine different persons, beginning the day you receive this and sending one each day will after the ninth day experience great joy.

At Jerusalem during the feast it was said, He or she who shall rewrite this prayer shall be delivered from all earthly calamities. Please do not break the chain.

To the above letter there is no name signed.

Endless chain letters should all reach the fire as soon as received. A person must be exceedingly superstitious to take heed to them, yet many of our people are greatly wrought up over the receiving of such letters, one lady said she spent a sleepless night. A person must feel christiane are of the Lords, and that he does not work that way, that they will not engage with or work for the other side. Who dare say that the "dreadful accident" was the punishment for breaking the chain. It must be broken at some time or else at least Uncle Sam cannot hold out carrying the mail and further if it keep on when it stops we would likely all expect as a result a dire calamity. It is only a feeble minded person who will be simple enough to be frightened by such a letter but many may wish to aid in the project because it might do good. In our time of enlightment we must live above such things and every endless chain letter should be destroyed. Every letter of any sort should receive the signature of its author. It is not alone the money invested, that is the 18 cents needlessly, but such methods work much ill instead of good results. If Bishop Lawrence is the author, and if it was said at Jerusalem, that the writing of this, would deliver from all earthly calamities, where does he get his authority, not from the Bible, not from God. Better stay by the truth and burn the letters as bad.
